The Obvious Choice

Sometimes, the most obvious answer is the one we find least attractive. I may know that the bathroom needs to be cleaned, but I don't really want to clean the bathroom.

In today's Gospel, Jesus is telling his disciples some pretty obvious things. Blind people don't lead blind people, it obviously doesn't work.

What can we learn from these seemingly obvious realities? I think it shows us that Jesus deeply understands the human condition. He is fully human and he experienced all things except sin.

Jesus is trying to wake us up, to cause us to look around and see how stuck in the muck we are. We can only be saved if we realize that we are in need of saving.
